New Jersey Legislature.

Taxaros, March 5, 1861.

The Borlington and Monmouth Railroad bill, and the Middiesex and Unica Railroad bill, which have been opposed by the New Jersey Railroad Company, were to day ordered at a third reading. Subsequently the Milburn Rahread bill, opposed by the same company, passed the Senste by a vote of 18 against 5.

Resolutions were introduced, requesting the State Directors of the joint retiroad and canal companies to investigate the accounts of every description, of said companies, the cest of construction, amount of income paid out for all purposes, amount of heads issued, amount of divisords paid in each or in stack, and all matters connected with said companies, in which the interest of the State is allested.

The reactions were debated. A motion finally prevailed post toling them indefinitely, 51 to 1. This may be regard as the first test rote of the season on the railroad bills.

The vote sustaining the Camden and Amboy Railroad policy being 31, a majority of the whole House, while their opponents, led on by the New Jersey Railroad Company, received but 21 votes.

NEWS FROM THE SAPITAL

******** Ruce . 1961. About thirty persons attended the meeting of the Railroad Committee this afternoon on the Broadway bill. A'vWard, of New York, appeared on behalf of the bill, and invited those present to express their views in regard to the measure. If there was any opposed to it he wished to hear them, that the friends of the measure might know the points of objection. Amos Haight, owner of the St. Nicholas Hotel, stated that he appeared before the committee on behalf of a large interest in New

Opening of the Hudson and Mohawk Rivers. NAVIGATION RESUMED—THE WEATHER—SUNGEN VESSELS—A FRESHET, ETC.

The Hudson river is now open from New York to Al-any, the last blockade of ice near Castleton having given way on Monday night. Along the sides of the river there are large quantities of broken ice which is beyond the reach of the current, and will probably remain there un-til melted away. This extends from Albany to Hudson. the river is almost entirely free of float ing ice, and the little that remains is so broken up and otten that it will not offer any obstruction to the bo Below Hudson, as far down as Tarrytown, there are along shore occasional places in the river where the floating ice is in as large quantities as between Budson and Albany is in as large quantities as between Hudson and Albany, but as a general thing it in stationary, the tides having no effect upon it. All along the river preparations are being made by the owners of sloops and schooners to commence business. Several steambouts have already started from New York for different puints along the river, and yesterday, about tweive o'clock at noon, a propeller, with schooners and barges in tow, passed castleton, bound to Albany. This is probably the same steamer that our reporter observed passing Catskill about half-past six o'clock on Monday night. One of the Hudson boats was expected on Monday night in that city, from New York, and the other last night. As the hight express bound South on Monday was between Rumebeck and Poughisepsie, a large steamer was on its way, bound North. It was supposed to be the Manhattan, of Rondout, as she was expected to arrive at that village carly that night. A short distance below Poughkeepsie, another large beat (probably one of the Hudson boats) was seen.

Rain fell in large quantities towards Albany on Sunday afternoon and night; and this, selected by the warm weather and prolonged thaw, completely broke up the Mohawk and the surrounding creeks and gireums, causing the country for a considerable dustance around. The ordige over the Mohawk at Fonda is completely sweeps away, and it is feared that tabless the water abates other temportant bringes will share the same fate. The river all along is very high and rough. Vesterday a change took place in the weather. At half-part elever at the rest of the last vessel, and in many place this weather was very dots and freezing hard.

The following particulars of the break on the Central Raticoad, and detention of trains, was obtained from one sengers who arrived yesterday in Albany from the Vester-The Mohawk broke up on sunday night. The loc was carried by the raising of the river upon the Central Raticoad track, between Yort Fain and Platine Bridge, to the hight of four feet, tearing it away in a number of places. The track was submarged nearly two in the, varying from two to jour feet in depth. The fires in the boometives were extinguished, the morning express of Monday arrived at St. Johnsville at half-past four o'clock. It lay there until daylight, when it attempted to proceed, but was compelled to back to St. Johnsville, was compelled to back to St. Johnsville, being unable to pass the break. This train was followed by the accommodation, which arrived there at half-past even A. M., and the mail frain at half-past cloven A. M. At five o'clock on sometavinght, the water having submided, and the track being partially closued, a train was made up, which started for Albany, it was switched off on the up track at four Plain to Paintine Bridge, when it was again switches of on the down track, and reached Albany without further delay. Since there the trains have near running regular. Gangs of men were empiryed all yesterday elevating the track of fee and expaning the road. The Mohaws flass are flooded from fitteen to twenty niles along the river between Little Failman format.

Money is easy, as before. On call the brokers are paying 5 a 6 per cent, and are lending at 6 a 7. Some choice names go at the discount houses at 5% a 7 per cent; out they are very scarce, and capitalists do not seem any more willing than they were to buy second class paper.

Fereign exchange is stendy. Bankers are esking 106, and seiling moderately at that rate. Commercial bills range from 200% to 100%.

The Stock Exchange was fower tels morning, the tone of the President's Message having induced many to sell. After the first board a sert of panie prevailed for some time, and leading stocks like New York Central declined I per cent, making the total decline since the early hour of the morning 1% per cent. After this there was rather a sharp rally, then another decline, and the market closed weak. The whole question of the future of the stock market seems to turn on the interpretation which must be given to the Inaugural Message of President Lincoln. On the face of it it looks like a declaration of war against the South, and it seems hardly possible that the Southern people can help attacking the forts after so plain an enunciation of the policy of the new government. But, on the other hand, it is noticed that while the President promises to collect auties, he does not say when he will begin to do so, but on the contrary enlogizes delay: and while he says he will execute the laws, he adds the important qualification—"wherever this is practicable." Again, it is positively asserted by the friends of the Southern revolutionists that no attack will be made on the forts, at all events for a long period of time to come; as such an attack would be quite likely to deprive the South of all the friends they have, not only in the Northern but in the border States also. These conflicting opinions constitute the staple of the arguments of the buils and bears at the present time. In the event of civil war, stocks could not fail to decline. But if Mr. Lincoln's inaugural is well received in the border States, and no overt act of war is committed until a further breathing time shall have been afforded to the cotton States, it seems to be expected that they will rise.
